Christman ave is the day of culminating pro-parations. Here is a refreshing gimpse of good things to be used from Christman to Twelfth-Day, which shows that we have not much, it at Day, which shows that we have not much, if at sill, improved on the table customs and apparities of two centuries ago: Now, says Stevenson, lubis "Twelve Mouths" (1981), "Capons and hems, beside turkeys, gause, ducks, with beet and mutton, must all sile; for in twelve days a multitude of people will not be fad with a little. Now plums and spice, eugar and honey, quare it among pies and broth. New a journeyman cares not a such for his master, though he begs his nine merities wit that twelve days. Now or among ples and broth. New a journeyman cutom to a cush for his maker, though he begs his plum porridge all the twelve days. Now or never must the mast be in tune, for the yound provails at his festival. He sent of the ceremonies, and thus amnounces himmer the mast be sent again if she forgets a pack of cards on Christmas eve. Great is the centertion of holy and iry, whether master or dame wears the breaches; and if the cook of uot lach wit, he will sweelly lick his fingers." A joily time there used to be in our own earlier days, and the network of the content of the convey an idea of the lovincibility of the day being the brawing and drinking of lamb's wood. This beverage is made by reasting apples wood in the same decortion.

Treasurer Spinner's Letter to Hen.

David Wilder is a letter to Hen.

David Wilder, of Marsachusetts, condamns the latter's plan for resumption of specie payments by striking down insantly at one blow the nominal value of United States legal tender notes to the arbitrarily value of only three quarters of its face as forced and violent, and argues it would cause jar, confusion and mischel not only in monetary, but in all business affairs. He cultogues 60% Morton's bill as proposing to build up and foster the appreciation of the greenlack to a par value of gold by a process as gradual, gentle, steady and samooth that the change would scarcely be perceptible by the debtor or creditor, and both alias would be salt to meet their business calculations and business arrangements from time to time during the process of appreciation with such accuracy that no serious hardship can happen to either class. He, however, prefers to recathe bill amounded in various particulars. The two leading one are—First, Banks should not be permitted to rein vain in a state of anapenion for a day, much lees for six months after resumption by the Treasury of the United States; and Second, the dividend on tovernment anceks belonging to banks, but held in trut by the Treasurer as security for the redemption of their circulating rates, should be retained by them and include any proposal by the Pressurer should commence a year earlier than proposal by the bill, Fronsurer Spinner's Letter to Hon. The readers of "Marmou" will quickly call to mind the vividly felicitous description of the good old ensitions of the Christians in Socialisad—of the gran boar's head created with Lays and resembry, the huge surfour, plus porridge, savey goese, and the "good brewn bowls" when Fewer and Caremony laid aside the rod and rule. Fewer and Caremony laid aside the rod and rule. Fewer and Caremony laid aside the rod and rule and brought anch cheer as lasted "the poor man's beart through half the year." In France and Spain joility and religious exercises commensurate the day, but it is less of a public feativat than New Yast's day.

Poetry glemms and aparities with scintillant praise and memory of the Yule log, and the four said froit embraced within its radiating glow. Sir Watter Scott calls to mind the glow. Sir Watter Scott calls to mind the wild customs of the early Dance at loi, room which we have the word Fule. The humor of the Dance at table displayed itself in peliting each other with bones, and Terfcouried and corleans tory, in the history of froife Kraka, of one Hottus, an inmust of the Court of Demmark, who was so generally assailed with these missines that he constructed ont of the bones with which he was overwhelmed a very respectable intrenchment against those who continued to make him a mark for their fam.

the bones with which he was overweetined a very respectable internehment against those who continued to make him a mark for their fun. The denose of the Northern warriors around the great free of pine trees are commemorated by Claus Magaus, who says they danced with such fary, holding each other by the hands, that if the grasp of suy failed he was pitched into the free with the velocity of a sling. The sufferer on such occasions was instantly picked out and ob liged to quaff off a certain measure of ale, as a pensity for esoling the king's fire. The descendants of these Scandinavians still enjoy the Yule log, and the ale and clasped hands, but all as leas teroclonist piccula size shands, but all as leas teroclonist piccula size shands, but all to learn the most joyue portion of the year in Germany and preparations commence for it as early see it. Nicholise Day, in the first week in December, about the time when the Some of St. Nicholise congregate in this our goodly city of Nuw York, and after discossing a pleantons board, smoke their long pipes and gentally listen to the praises of the Dutch. The children look forward with much saxiety to the coming of the Christ Kindthen the rewarding gening of all good children. On Christmas Eve they sink.
